The quality of time at the birth of a human being in July 2023

In the northern hemisphere, July and August are the summer months par excellence. They are the vacation months for families with children. Life is drawn to the light and warmth of the sun and much of it takes place outdoors. The sequence of seasons is a consequence of the Earth's orbit around the Sun. It is not the distance from the sun and the proximity of the earth to the sun, it is inclination of the earth's axis that brings us summer. The earth spins like a top and the earth's axis itself rotates 360 degrees in 25,700 to 25,800 years. This is one of the greatest cycles or oscillations of the earth, which has an influence on the warm and ice ages. The period of a human existence is not touched by it. Here it is smaller cycles, higher frequencies of vibrations, which have an effect on the human being. It is the orbital periods of the sun, the moon and the planets which exert their effects on the earth and the human beings through the field of gravitation. The rhythm of a human life is often compared with the seasons. Spring is youth, winter is old age. Look at your biographical rhythms. Did you manage the midlife crisis well? We show here only the statistical curves. But each generation and each individual has its own curves of harmony and disharmony. The planets do not move at a constant speed on your orbit. So for each generation and for each individual an own fabric of his biographical time is created.

Harmony and disharmony in July 2023

Let's look at the harmony and disharmony in July 2023

The full moon (July 3) begins the relatively disharmonious month of July. At the same time Sun, Moon and Mercury are disharmonious at the time of the full moon. This disharmony is still strengthened by Uranus and Venus. Only Jupiter counteracts this.

July 7-8 the quality of time is harmonic, especially due to Mercury, Moon and Neptune. It is a short time for conversations, contacts. If you intend to write a novel, a narrative, start now.

The harmony-disharmony cumulative curve is composed of very many vibrations and therefore can be interpreted only in connection with the curves of the planets, which are also composed of very many vibrations.

For example, highly gifted children are more likely to be born in times of high harmony and energy. However, children who have an affinity for harmony and are not very "willing to take risks" are also born in such times. The decisive factor here, as the studies have shown, is the correlation matrix.

From July 10 it becomes predominantly disharmonious and this disharmony lasts until the 26th.

Mars, Saturn and Pluto are particularly disharmonious during this period. Towards the end of this period, the energy is also relatively high. From July 17 on, there is a high probability of disharmonies with high energy. In personal life, such times are opportunities for reflection and contemplation, when activities in the outside world are inadvisable or make sense only under special control. Avoid arguments and controversies during this time.

Look at the curves for "high IQ," "low IQ," and "low risc" (Figure 4,5,6). All of these patterns indicate a lower probability.

The end of July is harmonious again

Starting July 26, Mars and Jupiter bring harmony back into the quality of time. What you didn't do before July 26, do now.

The course of life is subject to various methods of order and structure and proceeds in rhythms. The methods of wave astrology are based on the rhythm of Jupiter as the rhythm of growth. The whole evolution is based on development, so is the life of man.

Mental development

At the age of about 42, a turning point occurs: The incipient upheaval of midlife requires that Jupiter's themes become more prominent in order to achieve a meaningful transition into the 2nd half of life.

But still the activity in life, the joy of creating and achieving respected goals (Mars) are individually important, too.

The age from 42 years is often also associated with the beginning of physical decline. Physical and hormonal changes also draw attention to the coming age. For example, the eye changes, the lens tissue hardens, accommodation is impaired, the lung tissue and muscles lose tone, these are sliding processes.

Reactions to this can range from intensifying sports activity, to looking for a younger partner, to radical life changes.

If it is possible to find new life themes, new tasks, new interests, the beginning physical degradation can be compensated.

You can certainly find examples in your environment, but literature also thrives on it. Here are a few examples that I know of:

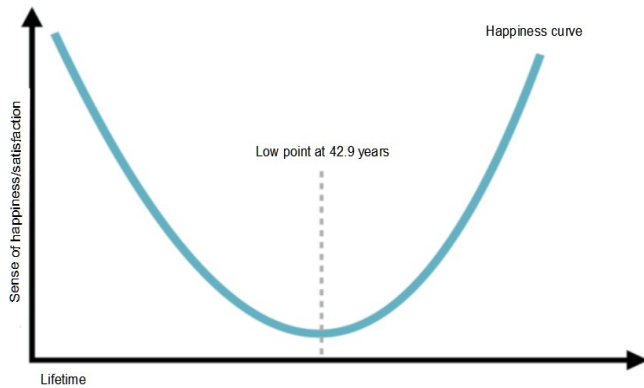

- A gifted mathematician fulfills her dream of a house with a garden suitable for self-sufficiency in a warm country in the Atlantic. She takes on a few jobs from her former employer to make life more secure.
- A manager's formerly important career unexpectedly becomes so unimportant that he prefers to take a multi-year trip around the world.
- A physician resigns shortly before being appointed chief of staff at a large clinic in order to establish a rural medical practice.
- A family man, who until now has prudently taken care of the family, suddenly doesn't come home. The latter was so frustrated by his everyday life and the obligations it entailed that he forgot all sense of responsibility and left his wife alone with two minor children and a house that had not been paid off. Many years later, he is seen by chance in another state, and now the old obligations can be settled. He cannot make up for the psychological damage he has done to the two now grown-up children.

Another reaction during this time of upheaval may be a career change or a greater preoccupation with intellectual, spiritual, or creative issues.

The intensification of a mental development, the occupation with the big life topics like fate and life philosophies, perhaps also with spiritual background topics direct the attention to new shores. The possibly beginning physical stresses are thereby better managed and cannot become too dominant.

In this 4th period of Jupiter, results of happiness research in psychology are also interesting.

Dilip V. Jeste is a neuropsychiatrist who published a study on life satisfaction. For this purpose, 1547 randomly selected people between the ages of 21 and 99 were asked about their feelings of happiness and life satisfaction. Life satisfaction was very low at age 41 /42 and increased again in the late 40s. The statements on the "happiness curve" indicate that after living through the crisis in midlife, life satisfaction can increasingly reappear. It must be remembered here once again that catastrophes such as earthquakes, volcanic eruptions, pandemics, famines, wars... can cause changes in the cosmically shaped course of life.

This "happiness curve" (Fig. 4) coincides very closely with the cosmic biographical rhythms for ages 36 to 48.

We will deal with the nodes in the biography beyond the age of 42 in the next issue of the magazine.

The quality of time at the birth of a human being in July 2023

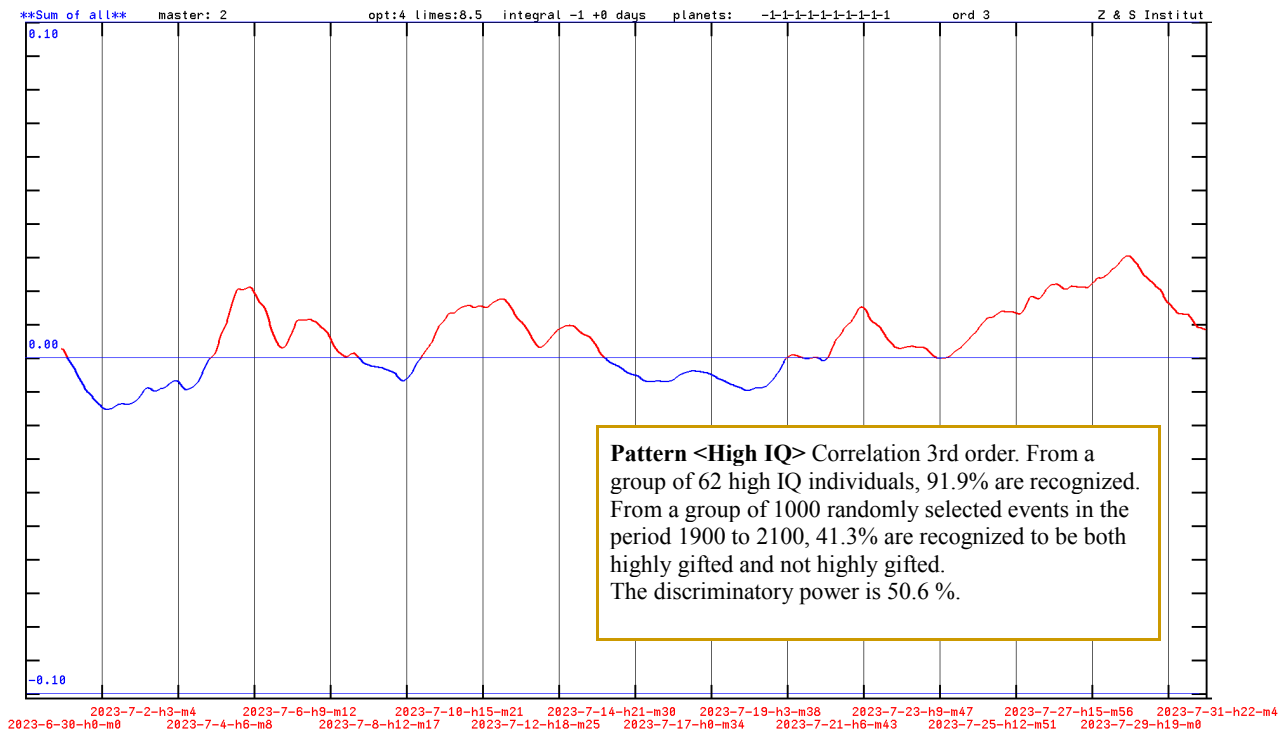

Figure 6: The probability of a higher IQ when a person is born in July 2023. If the curve is above the midline, then this time falls into the "High IQ" pattern for high ability.

The oscillations of the planetary gravitational field show larger periods of time for July 2023 with an increase in the probability of stimulation of higher intelligence at the birth of a child.

Important: During the whole period children are born with a high and a low intelligence quotient. The curves only indicate the changes in probability.

Comparison with the following curve (Fig. 5) for the "low IQ" pattern makes it clear that there are also always times that do not bring a higher probability of IQ stimulation at birth.

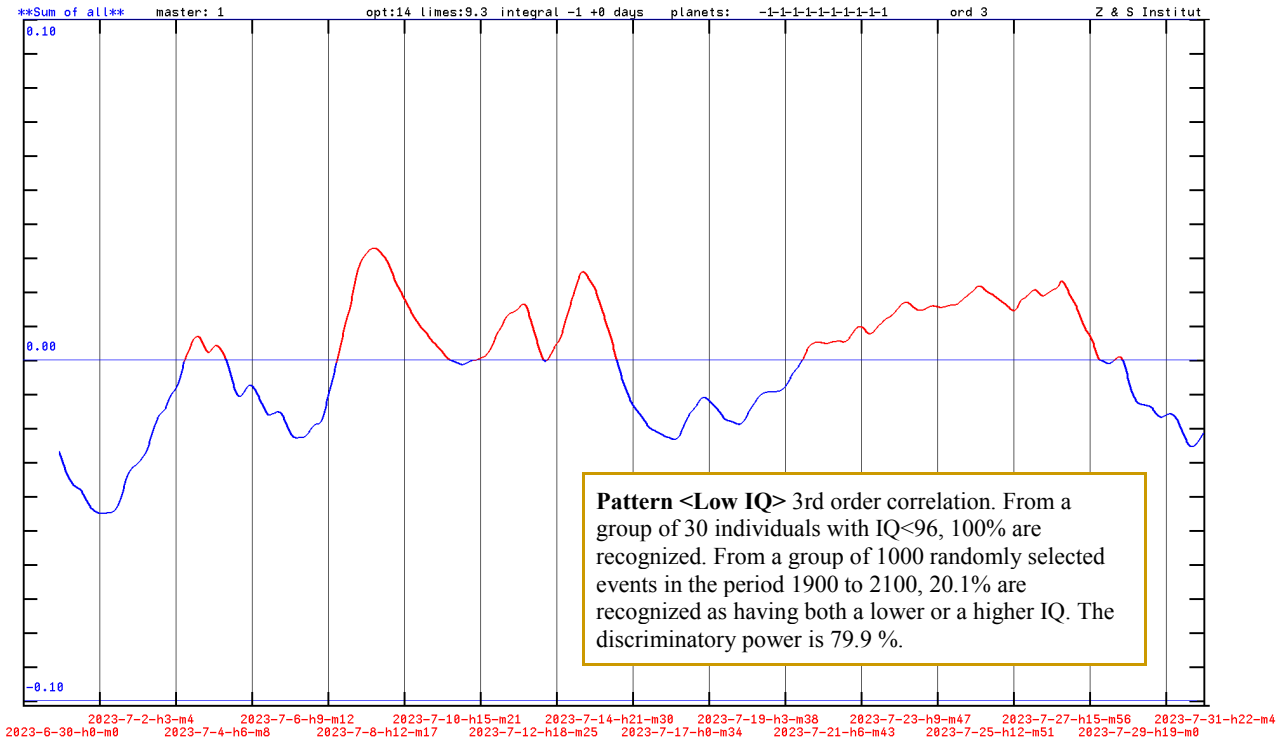

Figure 7: The probability of low IQ when a person is born in July 2023. If the curve is above the midline, then this time falls into the pattern for low IQ.

The month of July 2023 is very varied and one has to look carefully how the probabilities for a high and a low IQ (Figure 4 and 5) differ or even overlap.

Can these curves also be used for the start (birth) of projects?
 There is no research on this yet. But it could be a hypothesis.

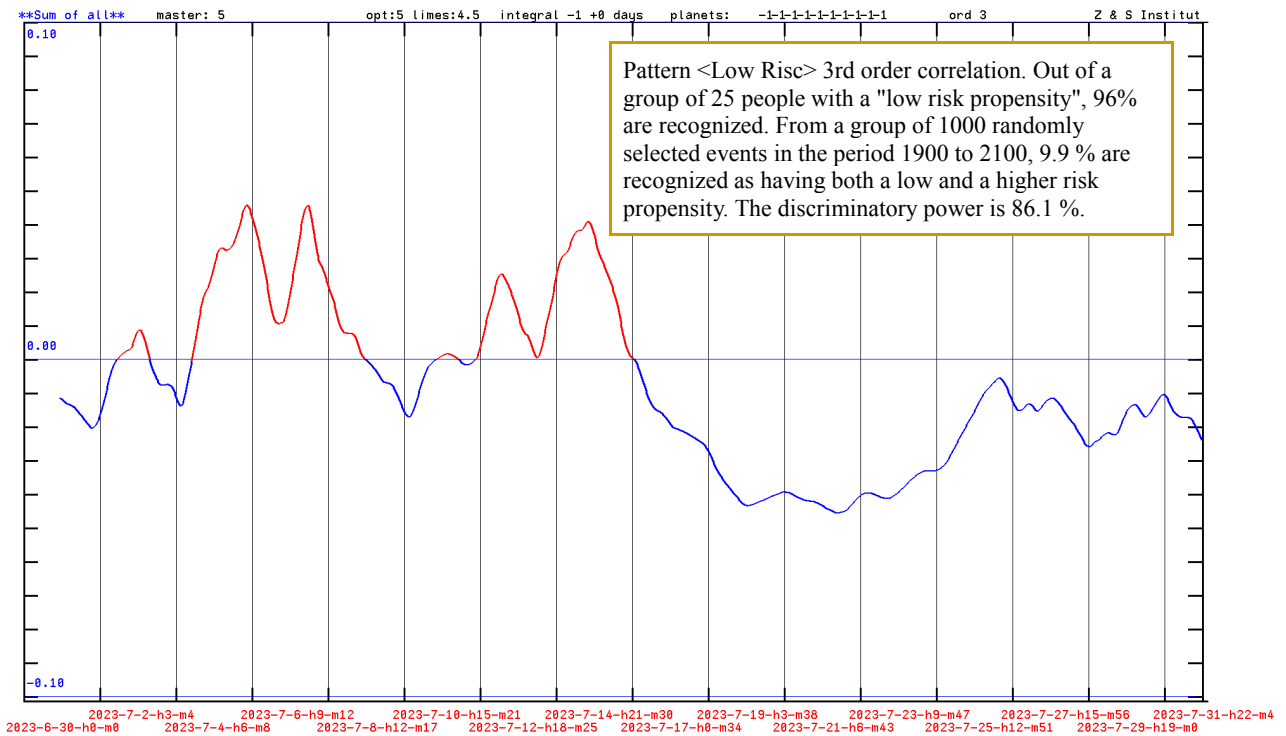

Figure 8: The probability for the characteristic "low risk taking/strong need for harmony" when a person is born in July 2023. If the curve is above the center line, then this time falls into the pattern for a "low risk taking/strong need for harmony"

Should one start risky ventures in the second half of the month?

We do not yet have any experience in this regard.

If an undertaking should run harmoniously, the first half of the month is probably better suited.

Even these few, statistically validated research studies indicate that there is still a large field for further investigation. For this purpose, groups of people with the same character traits must be studied. If such groups show significant deviations from the continuum (average), patterns can be created for prognostics.

To the interested readers: If you know such groups of people with special, statistically secured character traits, you can send them to us for testing for significance. If it is a trait that deviates from the average, we can create a pattern.

Artificial intelligence in the forecasting of earthquakes in July 2023

The fluctuating planetary gravitational field influences not only activities of the sun, but also those on earth. A special correlation function describes the harmonics of these fluctuations. Groups of earthquakes form oscillation patterns that differ significantly from randomly chosen control groups. These patterns are suitable as an element of an AI for assessing the probability of earthquakes.

Pattern A

Group of the 41 strongest earthquakes of the last century (1900-2000).

The pattern used here finds 100% from the list of 41 strongest earthquakes. However, 25.8% of the 1000 events are also identified as earthquakes from a randomly selected list. The discriminatory power (difference) from the continuum is 74.2 .

Pattern B

A list of 513 earthquakes (Earthquakes of magnitude 6.5 or greater or those that caused fatalities, injuries or substantial damage. BRK--Berkeley. PAS--Pasadena.) in the time period 1997-01-05 to 2002-06-18].

82% from the group of 513 earthquakes were recognized as earthquakes. From a randomly selected comparison group of 1000 events, 27% were identified as earthquakes. The comparison group of 1000 events was randomly selected in a period from 1900 to 2100.

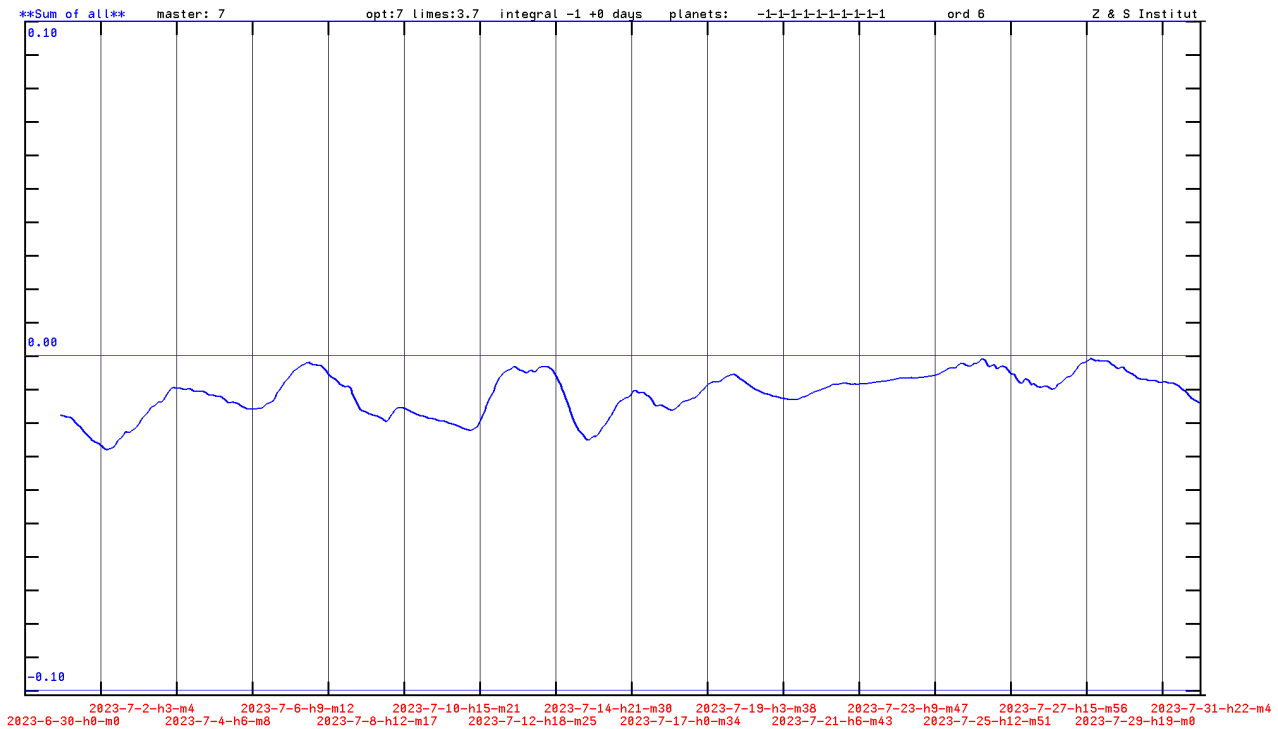

Figure 10: Curve of pattern B. 513 earthquakes for the period 2023-7. Above the center line, the probability of a pattern A earthquake is greater.

Important: This does not exclude major earthquakes.
